

Mark Beaven is a senior undergraduate at Eastern Kentucky University majoring in sociology and minoring in Appalachian studies. He is currently conducting qualitative research on tourism development in Eastern Kentucky where he is exploring the concept of an age drain from the region. His research interests include stratification, world systems, and community economic development. Mark will be moving on to graduate school next year where he will continue research in sociology in pursuit of a doctorate degree in the distant future.

Billy R. Stokes received his Ed.D. from the University of Southern Mississippi in 1980. He received an MBA from Tulane University in 1986.

Craig J. Forsyth is Professor of Sociology at the University of Louisiana at Lafayette. He received his Ph.D. in Sociology from Louisiana State University in 1983. Both his BA and MA are from the University of New Orleans. He is the author of over 200 journal articles and book chapters. His principal research interests are in the areas of deviance and crime.

Gail Bonhomme, Ph.D., is Project Director for Student Support Services and the Trio Research Collaboration in partnership with the Picard Center for Child Development and Lifelong Learning at the University of Louisiana at Lafayette. She is responsible for helping low-income and first generation students succeed in college and for organizing opportunities to assess the impact of Trio programs utilizing multiple state data systems.

Bobbie B. DeCuir, Ph.D. is the Interim Dean of the College of General Studies and the Associate Director of Campus Trio Programs and the LS-LAMP Program. She has spent the better part of her career assisting first generation/low income college students succeed in their program of study.

April Callis is a Lecturer of Honors at Northern Kentucky University. She received her PhD in anthropology from Purdue University in 2011 with a minor in women's studies. Her current research interests include the identity constructions of ex-gay individuals and slash fanfiction as a mirror to societal constructions of sexuality.

Ryan L. Sharp is a professor in the Recreation and Park Administration Department at Eastern Kentucky University where he teaches and conducts research on human dimensions of natural resources.

Rhae G. Hoskins received her Masters degree from the Recreation and Park Administration Department at Eastern Kentucky University where she studied natural resources recreation management.