

Sarah E. Cribbs is an assistant professor of Sociology at Randolph-Macon College. Her research interests focus primarily on white racial attitudes, racial boundary making, and immigrant incorporation in new destinations.

Patricia Gagne is a Professor of Sociology at the University of Louisville. Her research focuses on issues of gender and power.

Layla R. Padgett is a Social Services Specialist at the Voluntary Action Center in Columbia, Missouri. She will begin a Master of Social Work program at the University of Missouri-Columbia in fall 2016. She is primarily interested in the internationalization of social work and social problems, including immigrant and refugee reception/resettlement.

Srijita Sarkar is a PhD student in the Department of Sociology at the University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon, Canada. She earned a Master's degree in Sociology from the University of Louisville in 2012. Her research focuses on migration, immigration, social networks, and social media.